- Support and promote the induction program and peer coaching
- Integrate technology with a focus on higher-order thinking skills
- Analyze and use data from state and national test results to effectively improve student performance in all subgroups.
- Support and promote professional learning communities (PLCs).

What were the findings of each goal above?

- Staff development did a training on differentiated instruction and some PLCs made it part of their action plan to implement at least one differentiated instruction method into their classrooms. We have had informational meeting about what standards-based grading is and have sent staff members to trainings about how to get started.

Our K-2 grade classrooms have fully implemented standards-based grading with 3-5th grade to follow next year.

- JCC has a current curriculum cycle that is being followed.
- Staff development provided a two day orientation for new teachers in our district before school started. It also provided mentors for the first year to help guide the new teachers. In addition to the mentor an instructional coach works individually with the new teacher for the first two years.
- We have one to one I-pads for the entire school district. Staff development helps support that initiative with two technology integrationists to help staff effectively use technology in their classrooms.
- Instructional coaches organized data in numerous ways to help staff look at trends and areas of strength and weakness during PLCs.
- Staff development continues to provide support to our PLCs through instructional coaches and the PLC training team.
